

Artificial Intelligence is a branch of computer science.

Machine learning is a subset of AI that uses algorithms.

Deep learning uses neural networks with many layers.

Natural language processing helps computers understand text.